

Process Technician Job Description

Responsible for start-up, shut down, and troubleshooting of the molding processes during normal production runs. Setting up injection molding machines and all related equipment to allow the manufacturing of product that meets or exceeds the established quality levels at the standard rates that have been established. Continuously monitors processes and equipment and communicates any issues to supervisor or quality. Must have Five years recent experience performing set-up, processing, and troubleshooting of horizontal and vertical plastic injection mold machines in automotive industry. Able to addresses processing issues. Demonstrates knowledge of a wide variety of material variations, quality systems and tools. Strong inspection abilities required to identify part defects, and problem-solving capabilities in understanding root causes of defects. Excellent communication skills, including verbal and written. Must be computer literate and familiar with appropriate software programs. Knowledge of Lean Manufacturing (Kanban, 5s, Std, Work, Problem Solving etc.) High school diploma or GED is required. Two Year technical degree would be a plus.